

Environmental Policy

NEBOSH (The National Examination Board in Occupational Safety and Health) is committed to minimising the environmental impacts of its operations, so far as reasonably practicable, in order to protect the environment and prevent pollution.

NEBOSH is also committed to determine its compliance obligations and to ensure that its operations are carried out in accordance with these.

NEBOSH aims to take all reasonable steps to:

- identify the environmental aspects of its activities, products and services that it can control and those that it can influence and the associated environmental impacts;
- determine risks and opportunities related to its environmental aspects and compliance obligations;
- set objectives and annual targets for all significant environmental aspects;
- take appropriate actions to achieve these targets;
- monitor its environmental performance and progress against targets;
- minimise waste and emissions to the lowest practicable level;
- increase efficiency in use of natural resources;
- continuously improve our environmental performance;
- continue to encourage internal and external interested parties to adopt its environmental principles;
- communicate its policy to all interested parties.
